New Rector Appointed for Narberth Church

Rev. Joseph J. Hannigan Succeeds Late Father Hayes at St. Margaret's

WAS AT ASSUMPTION

The Rev. Joseph J. Hannigan has been appointed rector of St. Margaret's Church, Narberth, succeeding the Rev. Robert F. Hayes, who died May 2.

Father Hannigan, irremovable rector of the Church of the Assumption, B.V.M., Philadelphia, took up his residence in Narberth on Wednesday and will have charge of the services at St. Margaret's this Sunday.

Born in Pottstown, Father Hannigan obtained his elementary education in the public schools. He continued his studies at Villanova College and the Seminary of St. Charles Borromeo, Overbrook. He was ordained by Archbishop Ryan on January 6, 1892. His first appointment was as assistant rector of the Church of St. Canice, Mahanoy City, where he was appointed shortly after ordination. He was stationed from April, 1893, until September, 1894, at the Church of St. Mary, Phoenixville. He was appointed assistant rector of the Church of Our Mother of Sorrows in September, 1894, and remained there until April, 1900, when he was transferred to the Church of St. Anne, Philadelphia, as assistant rector.

Father Hannigan was named rector of the Church of the Holy Spirit, Sharon Hill, in June, 1906. He remained there until May 19, 1910, when he became rector of the Church of the Holy Family, New Philadelphia.

On February 12, 1916, Father Hannigan was appointed irremovable rector of the Church of the Assumption, B.V.M.

Outstanding Specials Offered This Friday and Saturday in "Narberth Days"

Narberth's progressive business people are participating this week-end in two "Narberth Days," offering special inducements for shoppers to buy here. The sales are individual efforts, but the merchants are co-operating in making the prices effective for a limited period in order to concentrate attention to the Borough's entire business section.

Sponsored by "Our Town," and backed by most active members of the Narberth Business Council, the event is designed not merely to sell goods, but also to show residents and neighbors of the Borough that values offered by independent stores here compete favorably with those offered elsewhere. Narberth's business people cannot exist without the co-operation and trade of the community's residents; continuation of Narberth's well-rounded group of business houses, providing convenient neighborly services, depends upon the response of householders to the merchants' advertising messages.

This week's sale is part of a nation-wide program to stimulate production and employment by setting up a need for stock in retail, wholesale and producing establishments. In this vicinity sales of a somewhat similar nature have recently been given or are now under way in Norristown, Wayne, Bryn Mawr and Ardmore. It is hoped that such events throughout the nation will help start an up-swing toward normal national prosperity. And it is Narberth's privilege and opportunity to do its bit, by responding to the current sales appeals.

Narberth Takes League Lead, Trimming Berwyn and Brookline on Memorial Day

Babb and 17-Year-Old Pat Clancey, Boro Moundsmen, Get Fine Support

SLAUGHTER GETS HOMER

By JOHN MULLIGAN

Narberth's brilliant team continued to flash championship form and moved into first place in the Main Line League, as the result of coping both ends of the Memorial double-bill at the playground. Gene Davis' men upset Bob Paist's Berwyn outfit rather handily 8-2 immediately following the annual parade and speeches and waited for a snack of lunch before earning a juicy 4-0 win over Johnny Nunan's Brookline nine. George Babb and Paist, both veterans of the loop, were opposing moundsmen in the first battle, with Babb coming out the victor after receiving wonderful batting support from his teammates.

Both Babb and Paist had considerable trouble with their control, but Paist offended more, sinking his fast one into two Narberth batters and issuing four bases on balls, as compared with two for blonde Babb. The Berwyn moundsmen was nicked for 14 hits, while his teammates found Babb for nine.

Johnny Nunan brought his tossers to the playground after lunch, boasting a juicy 3-1 win over Darby in the A. M. meeting and no doubt felt that he was sitting pretty with Jimmy Connor to shove in against the Davismen. However, Davis also had a trick or two up his sleeve and selected 7-year-old Pat Clancey, loose-jointed righthander from Philly, to take the mound, and the brand of ball the youngster flashed speaks well for future turns on the rubber.

Clancey was nicked for only three hits in the usual nine innings and nary a man managed to get as far as the hot corner. On several occasions he met trouble with the first man and was guilty of allowing four passes, but was there in a pinch, causing the enemy to either ground where he received backing up that would please any pitcher. Narberth completed two neat double plays at times when he showed signs of getting into trouble and he coasted along after a first-inning outburst gave him a comfortable lead.

Barney Slaughter, hard-hitting outfielder, ruined the day for Connor, when he poled a sizzling home run to left-center field with Walt MacGregor and Harry Francis on the lanes. Francis had reached base on a miscue, while MacGregor had shot a solid bingle to the outfield.

The final borough run was added in the fourth when Charley Carroll socked a two-bagger and Joel Rubincam lifted a long fly to right field.

MacGregor and Rubincam hit safely twice for Narberth, while Banes was Brookline's best with a double, and Johnny Reid and Connor accounted for the other hits.

Purse Snatchers Rob Three Main Line Women

Mrs. R. S. Radcliffe, of 202 Essex avenue, Narberth, was robbed by a youthful purse-snatcher last Friday while sitting on the lawn in front of her apartment. A youth approached and started to ask directions when he grabbed her purse, containing $12, and ran to a black sedan where two other youths were waiting, and sped away.

Two other Main Line women were robbed by bandits whom police believe to be of the same gang. They were Mrs. Anna S. Custer, of 306 Penarth road, Cynwyd, who was robbed while walking near her home, and Mrs. John S. Beattie, of 405 N. Highland avenue, Merion.

Firemen-Police Baseball

The Ardmore firemen will oppose the Narberth firemen in a ball game on the Narberth Playground this Friday evening. On Tuesday evening the Lower Merion-Narberth police will meet the Ardmore firemen at the Cynwyd School field.

Donation Day Wednesday

The annual donation day and luncheon for the benefit of the Holiday House will be held on Wednesday at the Home of the Aged, on Sabine avenue, Narberth.

Good Acting Characterizes Final Production of Narberth Players, "The Shelf"—Last Week

By "OUT FRONT"

The Narberth Players concluded their first season last week by presenting in the school auditorium on Wednesday and Thursday evenings "The Shelf," which their program classified as "a comedy, more or less polite, in three acts." The program did not mention the name of the author, but actually that was no matter of importance. The attendance was good each evening and the audiences gave many indications of feelings of personal friendliness for the actors.

The play was directed by Mrs. Faith F. Farmer and she had handled its situations well, and in selecting the cast from the available material in the Players' group, she had shown good judgment. This play, like its predecessors, revealed that those people who, only a year ago, acted on the belief that a capable group of amateur players could be organized in Narberth with a resulting benefit of satisfaction both to themselves and the community, were entirely justified in proceeding as they did. There were people in the audiences last week who were attracted to that play solely because of the quality of the past performances of the Narberth Players. That in itself is an indication of progress and of success.

The play itself was not a matter of any particular moment. It was concerned with the lives and schemes of a peculiarly unattractive group of people, but the interpretation of those parts by local people does merit comment. The leading role, that of Stella Amaranth, was played with skill and good sense by Mrs. Kathleen S. McConnell, who has long been recognized as unsurpassed among Narberth amateur actresses, but the author had mixed that part with such incompatible elements that it would have been

Past President's Club to Give Luncheon Today

The Past Presidents' Club of Montgomery County is giving a luncheon at the Spring Mountain House, Schwenksville, Pa., this Friday. Following the luncheon there will be a short skit, entitled "The Lamp Went Out," presented by the members of the organization. Mrs. Stephen E. Slocum, of Ardmore, will be the reader and in the cast are Mrs. Goodwyn M. Davis, Mrs. Harry Jacobs and Mrs. C. Arley Farmer, of Narberth; Mrs. Walter B. Supplee, of Cynwyd, and Mrs. C. K. Ridington, of Lansdale.

Borough Nine Swamps Upper Darby 12 to 1

Graham Hurts Davismen to Easy Win Over League Newcomer

MacGREGOR BRILLIANT

By JOHN MULLIGAN

Narberth fans were given an opportunity Saturday to witness a Main Line League newcomer in action when Upper Darby visited the playground with the sole purpose of upsetting Gene Davis' band of promising players. However, when the dust of battle had cleared away the homesters were boasting their second successive circuit victory, this time by a 12-1 score.

Nevertheless, the runs totaled by the Davismen as compared with the lone tally which trickled across the pentagon for the visitors' cause doesn't do justice to the brand of ball the latter exhibited. It was just a case of their suffering from weak pitching, especially early in the fray, when the ultimate winner hopped on Pitcher Jack Gallagher for eight runs in three innings, enough to win a few ball games. After this healthy outburst on the part of the Narberth batsmen, Gallagher quieted them considerably thereafter and gave a good account of himself.

Howie Graham, little right-hander, who curved Paoli to defeat last week, again was Gene Davis' selection to toss 'em up and again pleased with his mound chores. Only five Darbyites hit him safely, while he issued three passes to the initial bag and fanned six.

The crowd no doubt was mildly surprised when Charley Carroll, new first sacker for the home team, left the game in the third inning, and perhaps saw no cause for his withdrawal, but it was done for a very good reason. Charley became suddenly ill and found it impossible to continue. Up to that time he had one hit to his credit and received six put-outs flawlessly. Bob Gilfillan, lanky veteran, who has seen much service at that post, relieved him and gave a good performance for the duration of the game.

Narberth scored its first three runs in the opener when Howdy Powell reached base by forcing Harry Francis at the keystone after the former had received a ticket to first. Walt MacGregor broke off a single, and additional ones credited to Charley Carroll and Joel Rubincam accounted for the trio of markers.

Blonde Barney Slaughter, whose daddy starred in this loop quite a number of years ago while wearing the uniform of Berwyn, connected for his second homer of the season on the Narberth field in the next inning. He was responsible for three of the four additional Narberth runs when he larruped a terrific drive with Howdy Powell and Walt MacGregor on the lanes. Previous to the Ruthian blast, Harry Francis had been safe on a fielder's choice, which had eliminated Pitcher Graham, who had walked. The former Notre Dame star later spiked the rubber on MacGregor's solid poke, setting the stage for the Slaughter circuit hit.

The invading nine tallied their lone run in the stretch inning. George Gallagher waited Graham out and strolled to first. Howard continued

AWARD LEGION MEDALS

A parade throughout the Borough with patriotic and civic organizations in line and exercises at the Playground sponsored by the Harold D. Speakman Post, American Legion, and attended by over 2000 people, featured Narberth's observance of Memorial Day.

Organizations included in the parade were the Legion, Borough Council, Narberth Business Council, Legion Auxiliary, Mulieres, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, G. A. R., Gold Star Mothers, Narberth Fire Company, Woman's Community Club and school children of the public and parochial schools.

After traversing the streets of the Borough the parade wound up in front of the Community Building, where the firing squad from the Navy Yard fired a salute of three rounds over the Memorial tablet.

Presentation of the Legion school awards was made by Frank A. Schrepfer to Mary L. Hewitt and Benton P. Heald, of St. Margaret's School, and Helen Chubb and Daniel Hess, of the Public School.

In a brief talk Burgess Henry A. Frye pointed out that four recipients of the Legion medals in the past were now the holders of college scholarships, bearing out the wisdom of the Legion's selection.

A short patriotic address was given by Oscar H. Helms, of Riegelsville, Pa., from the speakers' platform erected in front of the grandstand on the baseball field.

Opponents of Merger Show Gain During Second Week of Straw Vote

Heavy ballot casting and a slight increase in the majority of total votes cast in favor of the "anti-mergerites" marked the second week of the straw vote being conducted by "Our Town" on the proposed merger of the Borough with Lower Merion Township.

Nearly twice as many ballots were cast during the second week of the poll with a slight gain noted for those opposed to the step. The vote now stands nearly three and one-half to one against the merger.

The poll will be continued for at least two weeks more in order to give everyone an opportunity to voice his or her sentiments. Another coupon is printed elsewhere in this issue.

Votes may be cast by all resident taxpayers, whether they are property owners or not, as it is this qualification which the Court recognizes on the petition, if it is presented.

Coupons may be signed by more than one person, providing, of course, that they fall within this classification.

The aim of this poll is to determine the wishes of the majority of the resi-

The salutatorian, Robert Hutchinson, of Narberth, will give the salutatory address. L. M. High School Notes

By BILL MACAN
Commencement week is here. Starting last Friday morning when the Senior Class presented one of the best programs offered in the school; continuing on Sunday at the baccalaureate service; and ending this Friday at the commencement program, when the diplomas will be awarded. On Sunday, the Seniors, arrayed in cap and gown, marched into the Senior High School auditorium to hear a bit of wise counsel presented in the sermon by Rev. Albert C. Kanzinger. He was assisted in conducting the service by Rev. Richard T. Lyford. Throughout the week the Seniors have been practicing marching into the Junior High School auditorium, as a preparation for the graduation exercises tonight. For them, after the awarding of diplomas by Everett E. Burlingame, president of the School Board, school days will be over.

On Tuesday morning the class picture was taken, the students being in cap and gown. This year, all the members of the graduating class will receive a picture, due to money left after paying expenses of the "Enchiridion."

Tuesday evening was Parents' Night at the school. Exhibits by the manual training, cooking, shop, sewing and mechanical drawing departments were on display.

Several boys, who four years ago graduated from Lower Merion, this year are graduating from higher institutions of learning. Some of them are: William Bailey, William Mearns and George Supplee, from State College; Hyde Ballard, Irving Dothard, George Garenbeck and Charles Strickler, from Haverford; from Princeton, Bob Kessler; the University of Pennsylvania, Jack Belsterling, Tom Libby, and Jim Stevenson; Alan Cooke, from Lafayette; and Ben Ludlow, from Swarthmore.

This Friday's assembly will be featured by the awarding of letters for spring sports.

How the By-Pass Routes Will Relieve Main Line Traffic

This map, prepared by the Keystone Automobile Club, shows the routes to be used by "through" traffic bound to and from Philadelphia on the Lincoln Highway. The routes were officially approved by the Commissioners of Lower Merion Township, and with the co-operation of Superintendent of Police Smith upward of 50 signs were erected in the last few days by the Keystone Automobile Club. Joseph R. Murphy, manager of the club's Main Line branch, was largely instrumental in working out the plans, with the active assistance of the club's engineering department.

It is expected that traffic from City Line to Roberts road will be greatly relieved by the use of the alternate routes, both of which are well paved and adequate for present needs. Increased facilities for local traffic, it is predicted, will result in more business throughout the Main Line area.

The Narberth Girl Scout Troop, No. 8, met this Tuesday in the Community Building. After the old business a discussion was taken up on a hike to be held on Friday, June 3. Nature study and nature trails were then conducted. The meeting adjourned 9 o'clock. JANE CHILLAS, Scribe.

Jack Crawford Gives Tennis Galleries Treat

Smooth Stroking Australian Extends Vines and Shields in Cup Matches

The galleries attending the Davis Cup matches with Australia at the Philadelphia Country Club last weekend are in debt to a curly-haired and quietly mannered young man named Jack Crawford, the No. one player on the Australian team.

For it was he who gave one of the finest exhibitions of stroke making seen on tennis courts in this section in a long time, and it was he who extended Vines and Shields to the limit, putting thrills and action galore into the matches in which he opposed them.

Everyone marveled at Crawford's peculiar shaped racquet, square on the end and with the convex throat, said to be designed after that used by Norman Brookes, old-time Australian master. But the deftly executed strokes, forehand or backhand, which flowed from that racquet and made with such seeming ease, brought forth the admiration of every tennis enthu-
footed.

From the spectators' standpoint
some of the best tennis of the matches was in evidence on Monday in the Shields-Crawford match. The tall
New Yorker started as though he would make short work of it, but he became overcautious in the middle of the match, being content for the most part to keep the ball in play. This style was just to Crawford's liking and he did some brilliant stroking to capture the two sets. The fifth found Shields once more hitting out with the power which won him the first two sets. His service in the last frame was particularly severe, gaining him three outright aces and forcing Crawford into numerous errors.

Vines, in his two matches, revealed both superb and mediocre tennis. One minute he would crash over an untouchable forehand drive and the next net an easy volley. It was the consensus of opinion that he has not reached the form he exhibited last summer. In his match with Hopman on Monday, he was especially careless and slipshod, erring so frequently that the gallery had all but deserted the stand by the time the match was concluded.

The doubles match on Saturday ran true to form, though the Australians provided more excitement than was anticipated by taking the third set. The overhead smashing of Allison was the outstanding feature of the match.

Norman Bramall, of the Cynwyd
Club, officiated in the umpire chair for the Shields-Crawford match.
Among the linesmen and other officials were other Cynwyd representatives, Dr. H. H. Lott, Hunter Lott,
Frank Zook, Dr. J. F. Strawinski,
Jack Turner, Charles N. Beard, Dr.
Herbert Fischer and Walter Tillman.

Payments Will Change

In no country in the world have so many people been accustomed to carry checking accounts at the banks and to use personal checks for paying so many household bills. The convenience and security of bank checks, combined with a 2-cent letter rate, which actually ought to have been only 1 cent in prosperous times, are the reasons why Americans readily fell into that method of personal as well as business disbursements.

Now it seems a foregone conclusion that everyone will soon be obliged to put a 2-cent stamp on every check he writes and in addition pay 3 cents' postage if he wishes to transmit it by mail—a total expense of 5 cents just for a small matter of convenience.

We venture to predict that a very large number of people are going to prefer to go around and pay their bills in cash and save 5 cents every time they do so, with the result that the post offices will be deprived of many 2-cent stamp sales which they formerly made, and local storekeepers will be asked to accept cash and receipt bills.

The public utilities, such as the gas and electric companies, the telephone companies, the water companies and all others who supply a constant commodity or service to practically every home, will find themselves faced by the demand to designate banks or other agents who are qualified to receive payments for them and to issue valid receipts therefor in all communities where they do not now maintain offices that are of convenient access.

The "public relations" advisers of those utilities should take cognizance of that foreseeable situation now and win popular favor for their employers by recommending that such depositories be promptly announced immediately after it is apparent that the new Federal taxes are going into effect, rather than to wait for the public to belabor them into doing it with seeming reluctance.

Soliloquy

A citizen who can recall Hamlet's soliloquy at will happened to walk by the Narberth Coal Company's windows one day last week, and his eye caught the headline "To Merge or Not to Merge" on the printed poster which Mr. Dunne had kindly displayed there for OUR TOWN.

It amused him to recall the real soliloquy and to compare its majestic flow and meaning to the merger problem which now confronts and disturbs the people of Narberth.

"Look it up," he said when we admitted that we could not recall it from memory. "You'll see how well it fits," he added, and hurried away.

We did look it up, and, venturing to take a liberty with immortal William here and there, we are presenting it to our readers herewith:

To merge or not to merge—that is the question.

Whether 'tis nobler in the mind to suffer

The slings and arrows of our cighth-grade parents, Or to take arms against our school-board troubles

And by merging end them. To rule ourselves

No more, and by merging to say we end

Big tax bills and the thousand financial shocks

That we are heir to—'tis a consummation

Devoutly to be wished. To merge, to die;

To sleep, perchance to dream—aye, there's the rub;

For in that Township sleep what dreams may come,

When we have shuffled off this Borough coil,

Must give us pause: There's the respect

That makes calamity of so long life;

For who would bear the whips and scorns of time,

The eighth-grade wrong; proud Merion's contumely,

When tuition's due and they say, "Now pay,"

The insolence of bigness and the spurns

That Citizen Burns of the Borough takes,

When we ourselves might our quietus make

With a mere merger? Who would school taxes bear,

To grunt and sweat under a Borough life,

But that the dread of something after merging

The uncommitted Township, from whose bourn

No borough can return, puzzles the will

And makes us rather bear those ills we have

Than fly to others that we know not of?

Thus school taxes would make cowards of us all,

And thus our native hue of independence

Is sicklied o'er with the pale cast of doubt

And our own charter of great price and moment.

With this regard our loyalty turns awry

And loses the name of action.

Narberth Beats Darby 9-5 in New Del-Mont League

By JOHN MULLIGAN

Gene Davis' Narberth Main Line League leaders broke into the win column for the first time in the new Del-Mont League Wednesday night by upsetting Darby, 9-5, in a hard-fought game at the playground.

A seventh inning spurt clinched the game for the home town boys, when four runs crossed, to break a 5-5 tie. Narberth had tallied three runs in the second and single markers in the third and fourth to only one for the invaders, but a sudden uprising in the fifth netted Darby a trio of runs and another in the sixth deadlocked the count.

Bob Gilfillan, Walt MacGregor and Johnny Long led the home batsmen with a brace of hits each, and Harry Francis hit for the circuit for his only base knock of the game. One of MacGregor's pokes was a double and Gilfillan and Harris also socked one hard enough for them to reach the keystone sack. Charley Carroll and Johnny Long had triples.

Shreds and Patches

Putting

It is pleasant in the spring to put on old clothes some fine morning and, after a good and completely adequate breakfast, to putter about the place, in cellar, garden or garage, wherever the whim of the moment may take one. There is a great and a relaxing difference between puttering and working. He who putters doubtless will accomplish many things which need doing; sometimes the effort which he expends may be the same as that required by real work, and the physical fatigue resulting therefrom may be even greater, but the mental flavor is vastly different. The Vagrant enjoys puttering, but he rebels against filling a holiday with real work. The only difficulty which has to be surmounted whenever The Vagrant dons working clothes and begins to putter is that La Vagranter never seems to recognize that it is not work on which he is intent, and she therefore frequently appears with suggestions of actual jobs that really require masculine attention. "My!" she says, looking over the shoulder of the stooped Vagrant who is meditatively smoking his pipe and pleasantly painting the garden gate, "My; that is going to be a great improvement. If you have any paint left, don't you think you could do over the outside of the garbage can?" It happens that cementing a crack in the bird-bath is the next item in The Vagranter's aimless program, because messing with cement is to him always a pleasant occupation, and so he replies that a garbage pail with any other color would be the same and lets it go at that.

Waste Paper

Pondering the perverse ways of English ivy has consumed many of the puttering moments of The Vagranter. Why will it cling so tenaciously here and never there? Why does it mat itself so prone on the ground all along the base of an inviting stone wall and, when deliberately selected as a ground cover, insist on endeavoring to mount into the branches of the rhododendrons which are in no state of health to support dependents? Such meditations by The Vagranter were interrupted the other day by the appearance of the Salvation Army wagon coming up the street. A winter's accumulation of newspapers and magazines was bulging in the cellar. Eagerly hailed, the nondescript collectors responded and were escorted into the cellar, where The Vagranter waited until they should have carried away all of their spoil. The men worked silently, rather dejectedly for the most part, trudging from cellar to wagon, back and forth with arms full of papers. Suddenly one of them, stooping to get a new load, glanced up at The Vagranter with a light in his eyes that had not been there before. "There is the New York Times," he said. "I used to buy and read that every day." He folded that paper into his pocket, doubtless wishing to renew still further the pleasant recollection of happier and more prosperous times.

Decoration Day

Decoration Day in the Nineties was considerably different from the Memorial Day of today, but the spirit of the occasion remains, because it is an essential and appealing sentiment in the emotions of the American people. In the Nineties, in a village far from here, after the "exercises" in the Town Hall, the parade would form in Main Street. There was the village band, resplendently uniformed, the mounted marshal, the Sons of Veterans, the Boys' Brigade, the Canton Tabor (uniformed rank of the Odd Fellows), school children with baskets of flowers, and finally the Grand Army, then an impressive battalion of men in their prime. The Grand Army marched at the end of the line so that when the cemetery gates were reached, all preceding groups could line the way in two single files and salute the veterans as they marched through the divided ranks and entered the cemetery first. The band played with muffled horns, the minister offered a prayer standing under a great oak, and soon in the spring sunshine groups could be seen moving in all parts of the cemetery—veterans, citizens and children, until every lot had been visited and nearly every grave had been decked in memory of services rendered in all the country's wars or for reasons more personal and more poignant. The Vagranter, lacking in those days any departed friend or relatives, of whom he had been aware, seriously carried flowers to the small headstone which marked the burial place of a child of the same name, who had died years before The Vagranter was born. Each Memorial Day brings back to him now the odor of geranium leaves,

Main Line Girls Get Bryn Mawr Degrees

Six Honored at 47th Annual Commencement Held Wednesday

G. E. PRESIDENT SPEAKS

Six Main Line girls received degrees at the 47th annual commencement exercises of Bryn Mawr College held Wednesday morning in Goodhart Hall.

Degrees were conferred at the exercises by President Marion Edwards Park. The opening prayer was made by the Rev. Ernest C. Earp, rector of the Church of the Redeemer, Bryn Mawr.

Those who received the degree of Bachelor of Arts were: Molly Atmore, of Wayne; Ellen Hand Shaw, of Merion, who received her degree magna cum laude; Elizabeth Converse, of Rosemont, who received her degree cum laude; and Mary Katherine Rasch, of Narberth.

The degree of Master of Arts in Education was conferred upon Grace May Cole, of Haverford. Miss Cole, a graduate of Wellesley College, has been head of the Lower School at Friends' Central School, Overbrook, since 1926 and a part-time graduate student at Bryn Mawr. She has also taught in the Falkner School, Chicago, and at the Beaver Country Day School, Brookline, Mass.

The degree of Doctor of Philosophy was conferred upon Myra Richards Jessen, of Rosemont. Mrs. Jessen, who holds an A.B. from Bryn Mawr, has studied in its Graduate School, taught at Friends' School and the Baldwin School, and has been an instructor in German at Bryn Mawr for several years. The year 1928-29 she spent studying in Germany as the Anna Ottendorfer Memorial Research Fellow. The subject of her dissertation was "Goethe als Kritiker der Lyrik."

A Resident Fellowship for the year 1932-33 was conferred upon Nadia-shela Galli-Shohat, of Ardmore, who holds a Doctor of Philosophy degree from Gottingen University, Germany. She was the Helen Schaeffer Huff Memorial Research Fellow at Bryn Mawr during the past year.

The commencement address was delivered by Gerard Swope, of New York, president of the General Electric Company, who advocated shorter hours in industry as a means of relieving unemployment.

"Many industries," he said, "have shortened hours of work per week, so as to employ as many of their workers as possible. If this plan should be adopted by all commercial and industrial establishments, work would be more equitably divided and there would be less occasion for outright relief."

"We have in this country, normally about 45,000,000 people who are gainfully employed. Today probably eight to nine million people are unemployed. Therefore, if all work were more equitably divided among those normally employed each one should have at least half-time work."

"The attitude of management, for whom this problem of rotation of work is difficult and costly, and the attitude of organized labor, have definitely changed towards its acceptance."

as it then remained in his perspiring palm after he had carried his "bouquet" all the way from home to that small grave in the family lot.

Londoner Speaks on Christian Science

Ralph B. Scholfield Delivers Lecture at Narberth Theatre

A lecture on Christian Science, entitled "Christian Science: The Unity of Law and the Gospel," was delivered by Ralph B. Scholfield, C.S., of London, England, member of the Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., recently in the Narberth Theatre.

Given under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Ardmore, the speaker was introduced by Miss Gertrude L. Gibson.

A resume of Mr. Scholfield's lecture follows:

As we review the condition of human affairs today throughout the world, we cannot help being struck by the universal sense of unrest and tumult. In such conditions mortals are apt to be borne on by the current of human emotion without consideration of that divine law, whereby alone, order, discipline, and control can be maintained. That law, which we will call the law of Mind, intelligence, or God, is fully dealt with in the teachings of Christian Science.

Christian Science teaches that the great Lawgiver cannot be inert matter or material force, but must be primal, eternal, and self-existent intelligence, Mind, or God. Wherever law is being manifested, whether in the command "Let there be light," or in the control of the oceans, or in the exemplification of life and goodness in human experience, it is always the same cause, namely, Mind, or God, that is operating. All creation is held in this law, and it is a law of love, and not of hatred or indifference. Hence the all-important fact that the great Lawgiver, God, must be Love as well as Mind.

In the Gospel of Matthew it is recorded that Jesus was asked by a lawyer, "Which is the great commandment in the law?" Jesus' reply was: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets." And Christian Science teaches that healing of disease follows naturally the fulfillment of God's law.

The idea of God as infinite Mind and Love, and not as a mysterious and vindictive power, opens up to us the possibility of understanding and loving God.

What are wrongly termed laws of nature may appear to enter our lives in the shape of deformity, disease, and decay, but the hour has struck when mankind, through Christian Science, is questioning the legality of those laws.

The Christian Science practitioner cannot heal without law and Love. And that Love is daily and hourly helping him to see his own true self and the true self of his neighbor.

Christian Scientists recognize that besides Christ Jesus no one has lifted the burdens of sickness and evil from humanity as has our revered Leader, Mary Baker Eddy. Her love of good urged her on, and her desire to heal the lame, the deaf, the dumb, the blind, the sick, and the sinner, brought her to the point where she saw these conditions as unlawful bondage, such as was experienced by the prodigal. She pressed on until she saw that a higher law, the law of one great Lawgiver, Mind and Love, must end human bondage.

In thinking of the law and the gospel, let us not regard the law merely as the Ten Commandments and the gospel as a feeble effort to manifest some human affection. Let us rather understand God as "I AM," as the one great Lawmaker, Love, whose law renders life good and love eternally real, while evil, disease, disorder, and death are rendered wholly unlawful, unreal, and powerless. Let us think of the gospel as the demonstration of this law in all the minutiae of our daily experience, healing sorrow, sickness, sin, and death.

Good Acting Characterizes Final Players' Production
difficult for anyone to have played it convincingly, without somewhat departing from the obvious and stressing either the unblushing adventuress or the misunderstood woman of good principles. The author had hamstrung the part, and even Mrs. McConnell was not able to make it very convincing.

Mrs. Martha Simpson played the part of Mrs. Chetswold, the minister's mean-minded wife, with an authority which indicated that she is a valuable playing member of the local organization. She employed facial expression and bodily attitudes consistent with the part with a skill that was pronounced and without any of the woodenness of face and poise which frequently afflicts amateur actors whose entire energies are often concentrated on speaking the lines correctly. One could have imagined that the part of Mrs. Chetswold could have been as well portrayed without quite so much vocal force, but even in that, Mrs. Simpson's interpretation could have been correct, and she should be given credit for accurately envisaging a role which certainly must be entirely foreign to her natural make and temper.

Next in order of significance comes William H. Muller as Senator Risdale, a hard-boiled politician and grafter, without one redeeming trait. Mr. Muller's abilities as an amateur actor have pretty firmly established themselves previously, and in this latest part he added somewhat to his previous reputation and revealed that he brings to all his interpretations a quality of reserve and strength which is appealing.
As Stanley Risdale and Caroline Wendham, J. Lewis Baker and Miss Dorothy Speck had the juvenile parts, which were the only attractive ones in the entire cast. Both of them did very well. Mr. Baker frequently revealed just the right touch of youthful naivete and emotional awkwardness. Miss Speck's part was really a difficult one. There was in it practically no gaiety and no opportunity for youthful charm. It was necessary for her to win the sympathy of the audience without overplaying the part. She accomplished that well and when her tears were called for, they seemed very real indeed.

Granger D. Schrader, as Rev. Dr. Chetswold, made his second appearance before a local audience, and revealed again that in him the Narberth Players are developing an actor of much promise. When he first came on the stage as the sanctimonious Chetswold there were people in the audience who thought, "There comes Gale," recalling his name in a previous part, but to those people Mr. Schrader revealed not only a new manner and method for his new part, but actually an entirely different voice.

The part of John Wendham, a none too honest, a weak and vacillating man, was played by W. Russell Green, who always gives conscientious attention to any part that is assigned to him, but who is himself too honest and forthright in manner and appearance to handle convincingly a part like Wendham. This is written to Mr. Green's credit. Mrs. Blanche Hongler had the part of Emma Smith, the reasonably decent, hired-girl type, maid of all work, who at least worked for a living, but volubly and with a petty mind. Mrs. Hongler played the part very well. The minor part of Baldwin Custard was capably played by James F. Sherron, Jr. The part was not much, but he got out of it as much or more than the author had put into it in the first place.

The play itself was a poor selection, not worth the time and effort which the local actors put into it. This is not written because some of the lines were broad and required occasional profanity, but because such a play defeats what should be the underlying purpose of any amateur group of actors. That purpose should be a desire to produce the best plays of the best writers in order to derive the personal benefit of doing a good thing well and, incidentally, to supply to friendly audiences a glimpse of high grade drama which might seldom be available on the professional stage, or if it had already appeared there, was of a quality that would bear repetition. Any other procedure on the part of amateurs leaves them open to the suspicion that they may be actuated by a strong personal desire to appear before the footlights with as little serious mental strain as possible. It should become an established fact here in Narberth that, regardless of all handicaps, the Narberth Players will never invite their friends to attend anything but a good play.

to show a temporary wild spell and sank a curve into Johnson's ribs, putting him on first, and Bitters lofted a high one-bagger that gave Gallagher plenty of time to round third and cross with the run which prevented a shutout defeat.

MacGregor electrified the crowd with his play around the shortfield position. He was credited with seven assists and two put-outs without a miscue, but didn't depend on his defensive skill alone to gain a place in the sun. Three safeties, one a double, rebounded off his heavy club as he and Joel Rubincam shared the runner-up position to Cliff Mooney for batting honors. Rubincam boasted a triple among his trio of blows, while the fleet-footed center fielder, who is considered a regular "ball-hawk," had four to his credit in the apple mas-saging, one a two-bagger. Harry Francis was third with two.

Bitters had a brace of hits for the vanquished nine, which included a triple, while McNalley played a fine game at third base.

Evening Lectures at Institute of International Relations Open to Public

SERIES IS JUNE 13 TO 24

The third Institute of International Relations will be held at Haverford College, June 13-25, immediately after commencement. A remarkable feature of this Institute will be the ten evening lectures given by well-known and well-informed men, on vital questions of the day, and to which the public is cordially invited, without charge.

These lectures will be held at the college, in Roberts Hall, at 8 o'clock (daylight saving time) on the evening specified. The program is as follows: June 13, India's Struggle For Freedom, Francis J. McConnell; June 14, Planned Production and Distribution Essentials to World Peace, Norman Thomas; June 16, Internal Politics of Japan, Yusuke Tsurumi; June 17, Has the Peace Machinery Failed?, James G. McDonald; June 19*, Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow, Frederick J. Libby; June 19, Fundamental Issues in the Far East, Grover Clark; June 20, Should the Versailles Treaty Be Revised?, Sidney B. Fay; June 21, The Jews' Contribution to World Peace, Edward L. Israel; June 23, Why the American Negro Is Becoming Militaristic, W. E. Burghardt Du Bois; June 24, Nationalism — A Menace?, Leyton Richards.

*This lecture will be held at 4.30 P. M.

The entire program of the Institute is now complete. It offers a remarkable opportunity for the study of world relationships, and the tremendous problems connected therewith. A dozen courses of college grade, will be offered, some continuing throughout the period, and so arranged that each person may attend all the classes.

European international relations before the war and international organization afterward, will be discussed; and the spiritual, sociological, moral and ethical implications of war and peace. The effects of present-day economic facts and tendencies on world peace will be a course of great interest, as will also be Grover Clark's series on the issues in the Far East. The history and problems of Disarmament and the American Peace Movement will be presented. Finally, the effective use of the information and ideas gained will be taught in courses on Creating Peace Attitudes in schools, summer conferences, in local groups, and by Peace Caravans.

Among those presenting the above courses will be Devere Allen, of the Nation; Henry J. Cadbury and Horrell Hart, of Bryn Mawr; Grover Clark, consultant on Far Eastern Affairs; Sidney B. Fay, of Harvard University; Herbert F. Fraser, of Swarthmore College; Pitman B. Narberth Theatre Notes
Warner Baxter and Marian Nixon charm in "Amateur Daddy," at the Narberth Theatre this week-end. Like "Daddy Long Legs," the story concerns a gay bachelor fathering a family of children.

Saturday's matinee at Narberth will feature, in addition to "Amateur Daddy," another of the series of fairy-land operettas that have been popular at the borough playhouse. It is "Puss in Boots," guaranteed to bring laughter and joyous thrills.

Very amusing and tuneful, and superbly directed and acted, is Ernst Lubitsch's "One Hour With You," bringing to Narberth next Monday and Tuesday the inimitable Maurice Chevalier, Jeanette MacDonald, Charles Ruggles and Roland Young.

Distinctly not to be missed is "Arsene Lupin," coming Wednesday and Thursday, in which brothers, Lionel and John Barrymore, match wits and dramatic ability. Exciting drama throughout, with an exceptionally strong plot and acting. The cast also includes Karen Morley, Tully Marshall and John Miljan.

Coming next week-end is "Young America."

At the Egyptian
Another of its week-end treats—a light, diverting comedy program—will be presented at the Egyptian Theatre this Friday and Saturday nights and Saturday matinee. Good comedy and the thrills of a motor race mark "Racing Youth," in which appear Slim Summerville, Louise Fazenda, Frank Albertson and June Clyde. Also on the program are Laurel and Hardy in "Helpmates," a Betty Boop cartoon, and "Screen Souvenirs"—amusing resurrection of films of ancient vintage.

Exciting drama is furnished by an all-star cast in "Are You Listening," a tale of crooks and the radio. Featured are Karen Morley, Anita Page, Neil Hamilton, Wallace Ford, Joan Marsh, Jean Hersholt, John Miljan, Madge Evans and William Haines.

Filmed from the novel, "The Shorn Lamb," is "Strangers in Love," coming to Cynwyd next Wednesday and Thursday. Frederic March enacts the role of an usurping son who forges a will to deprive a brother of his inheritance—and also the role of the adventurous vagabond brother, who comes into his own after thrilling and romantic episodes. The cast includes Kay Francis, Juliette Compton, Stuart Erwin and Lucien Littlefield. Scenes are lavishly set in New York and Long Island.

Claudette Colbert, Edmund Lowe and Stuart Erwin will amuse in "Misleading Lady," coming to the Egyptian next week-end.

Synopsis of Story of "Young America"

Art Simpson (TOMMY CONLON) has the reputation of being the "worst boy in town." While he is up before the sympathetic Juvenile Judge Blake (RALPH BELLAMY), he attracts the attention of Mrs. Doray (DORIS KENYON), wife of the town's leading druggist.

Art rescues Mrs. Doray's dog from being hurt by a truck and earns her gratitude, although her husband (SUENCER TRACY) dislikes the boy and shows it. On the way to school a bully picks on Art's pal, Nutty Beamish (RAYMOND BORZAGE), and as a result of the ensuing fight, Art is suspended from school. His widowed aunt (SARAH PADDEN), with whom he is living, is furious over the disgrace, and Art takes refuge with Nutty's kindly grandmother (BERYL MERCER), Nutty also being an orphan.

That night Mrs. Beamish becomes ill and the two boys set out to get medicine. All the drug stores are closed, and they finally force a window in the Doray store and secure a bottle of her remedy, leaving the money, which, however, gets lost. The policeman on the beat, Officer Weems (ROBERT HOMANS), sees the boys and captures Art, though Nutty gets away.

Art comes again before Judge Blake, but refuses to explain what he was doing in the store. Nutty tries to save him with a wildly imaginative story, but fails, and it looks bad for the boys until Mrs. Beamish enters and testifies. The judge parols Nutty in his grandmother's care, but Art's aunt refuses to have anything more to do with him and there seems no choice but to send the boy to a reform school.

At this juncture Mrs. Doray offers to be responsible for Art, much to the amazement of her husband, who had hoped to have the boy sent to jail for his "theft." Against Doray's wishes, Art is installed in his home and reinstated in school, but by order of the judge, is not allowed to speak to Nutty any more.

One evening in the absence of the Dorays, Mrs. Beamish comes to tell Art that Nutty is very ill and wants to see him. She has no money for a doctor and Art, in desperation, gives her Mrs. Doray's household money and dashes off to see his friend.

Nutty dies just as Mrs. Beamish and the doctor arrive, and Art sadly returns to the Doray home—only to overhear Doray indignantly delivering an ultimatum that Art must leave, or he will. Not wishing to cause further trouble, Art pretends to be very defiant and stalks out.

The next morning the Dorays learn of Nutty's death, and suddenly realize their mistake and Art's sacrifice. Doray tries to find the boy, but Mrs. Beamish hides him. Art starts to leave town that night, but in passing Doray's store sees a pair of burglars holding up the druggist. The crooks force the frightened boy to go with them, and make him drive as Doray and Officer Weems chase them.

To keep the men from shooting their pursuers, Art swerves the car into an embankment and wrecks it. Doray and Weems capture the crooks and Doray decides the least he can do to make amends is to adopt the boy.

Miss Wilson Engaged
Dr. and Mrs. George Wilson, of Old Gulph road and Hageysford road, Penn Valley, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Katherine Adair Wilson, and Mr. George C. Davies, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Davies, of Philadelphia.

Editor, to Protect His Sanity, Declines to See Sweet Young Things of Poetic Trend

The other day a sweet young thing in a big floppy hat, bubbling over with girlish glee, burst into the office, asked for the editor and was shown into the editorial sanctum.

She announced that she had a poem for the paper which had won the award in her nature club. The damsel declined a seat and insisted on reading the poem (so-called) from a standing posture with appropriate inflections and gestures.

For the sake of his sanity the editor, upon the young lady's departure, informed his secretaries that no more giggling sweet young things of a poetic trend were to be admitted to his presence.

Is not the following effusion sufficient justification for such a harsh order?

June Orchard
Orchard, Orchard, sweet, sweet Orchard,

Pregnant with felicity,
How I love to lie with thee
And gaze upon thee, tree by tree,
Thrilling with expectancy.

Thy fruit trees quiver this early June

As, o'er their trembling heads, the moon

Arises. Blessed by this boon,
Hushed by ecstasy, I swoon!

Orchard, Orchard, sweet, sweet Orchard.

SHIRLEY ATMORE,
VIVIAN LEVIN.

Stage All Set for Colorful Tenth Flower Show in Bala-Cynwyd Tuesday

Distinctive Shull and Hengel Display on Woman's Club Stage

ALL INVITED TO ATTEND

Music, colorful floral and other exhibits, and an unusually well arranged stage will mark the Bala-Cynwyd Garden Club's tenth annual flower show. It will be held at the Bala-Cynwyd Woman's Club, Levering Mill road and Bala avenue, Cynwyd, 4 to 10 P. M., next Tuesday.

The Junior High School Band will play at 4.30, children's prizes will be presented at 5, and others at 8.15.

The competition is open to all amateur gardeners, not necessarily residents of Bala-Cynwyd.

On the stage of the club house will be an attractive typical old-style Pennsylvania home and garden, prepared by the Shull Lumber Company, of Bala-Cynwyd, and Hengel Brothers, of Ardmore, who were invited by the club to collaborate for the occasion. Hengel Brothers have arranged a pleasing garden. The Shull exhibit is a specially built miniature house in the Eastern Pennsylvania Colonial style, with rough white clapboards (Colonial siding), Colonial hardware, green shutters and roof, Paul Revere lantern, lighted windows, white garden furniture, and a spearhead picket fence of the type that Alvin Shull has played a large part in making a distinctive and popular feature for Main Line homes.

Final plans for the show were made by the Executive Board at Mrs. H. W. Bieber's home Tuesday. Posters made by school children, for the best of which prizes will be awarded, are being placed in Bala-Cynwyd's stores, along with a schedule of the classes. Narberth Girl Elected to Activities Board at Smith

Miss Katharine Yow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jones Yow, Baird Apartments, Narberth, a junior at Smith College, Northampton, Mass., has recently become a member of the Activities Board, composed of the heads of the extra-curricular activities and organized to further co-operation among different clubs and societies on the campus.

Miss Yow will act as the representative for the musical activities, including the orchestra, choir and glee club.

Philately at Rotary

Philately, or the science of postage stamp collecting, formed the topic Tuesday at the meeting of the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club. Philip A. Livingston was the speaker.

Mr. Livingston showed specimens of a number of recently issued stamps of the United States and foreign countries, each of which showed some local or historical event.

The club voted to abandon its annual outing in favor of an inexpensive affair, the money saved to be used for the support of a family until November, under the plan of the Main Line Emergency Relief Committee.

To Build Better Business - - -

Did you ever pause to think what would happen if your income was stopped? Of course you have. That's why you are saving now. That's why you have postponed buying something or other that you need now but without which you can get along temporarily.

We are all in the same fix. We are all being conservative. We are afraid of next month. We are afraid our incomes will be curtailed. We are afraid the salary check won't be forthcoming. We've all quite spending.

Now let us give you another little problem to think over. Get out your pencil and figure it up. Here is the question:

If your salary check is stopped, just how long can you and your family live on the additional amount you have saved by postponing the purchase of something you need this month? If you haven't put something away besides that, you'll be hungry before the summer is over. Not a pretty picture, is it?

Now that you have figured that out, consider this. If everybody continues to curtail their spending unreasonably, incomes will be curtailed . . . salaries will be stopped . . . and maybe times will really get hard.

If spending normally would insure the continuance of your income, you'd spend, wouldn't you? Now get this. Think it over. Talk it over with your friends. Talk it over with your banker. Talk it over with your business associates or with your boss.

If the people of this community resume normal spending, your income is safe. It's up to you to do your part during Narberth Days, Friday and Saturday.

Last Chance to Vote on Merger; Poll Closes Next Wednesday

With one more week in which votes may be cast in the poll being conducted by "Our Town" on the proposed merger of the Borough of Narberth with Lower Merion Township, it is expected that a large number of citizens will take advantage of the opportunity to record their views on the matter.

The past week, the third of the straw vote, saw further gains by those opposed to the merger, making to date nearly a four to one majority for the "anti-mergerites." Coupons sent in during the week gave a higher majority, proportionately, to those opposed to the merger.

In order to facilitate voting during the last week of the poll, reprints of the coupons will be available at the office of "Our Town," at Davis' Store, and at the Post Office, where another receptacle will be placed to receive votes.

Coupons may be mailed to "Our Town," or deposited in the box at Davis' or at the Post Office. All ballots should be signed, but names will not be published. The name of more than one adult member of a family may be signed on a coupon.

Voting in this poll will, of course, have no official bearing on the proposed step, but may have considerable weight in determining whether or not the advocates of the merger will deem it advisable to attempt to secure the necessary signatures of two-thirds of the taxable residents of the Borough on the petition which must be presented to the Court before consideration will be given to the matter.

So send in the coupons without delay and be sure that every taxpaying member of your family does likewise. You will be performing a public service by helping ascertain the wishes of the majority of the residents of Narberth on this vital subject. The poll will close at 5 P. M. next Wednesday.

In the next issue of "Our Town" the exact tabulation will be printed.

Davisment Split in Twilight Contests

Down Newtown Square Monday
8-4 and Lose to N. Y. Black
Yankees 7-2 Wednesday

MacGREGOR BRILLIANT

By JOHN MULLIGAN

Narberth split the mid-week games, taking the measure of Newtown Square on Monday by an 8-4 score and bowing later to the New York Black Yankees on Wednesday, 7-2. As far as value is concerned, the first game was more important to the Davismen, since it was a Del-Mont League fray, while the other was just an independent contest, with a team that is considered to be the fastest colored outfit in the East.

Outstanding in the Narberth victory against Newtown Square was the work of Walter MacGregor, flashy shortstopper, who has seen years of service in the minor leagues, having starred for Wilkes-Barre in the NYPA League and later with a club in the Middle Atlantic League.

Walter lapped the horsehide in wholesale fashion, having a trio of doubles to his credit and they all came at important moments during the Boroughmen's attack.

Howard Graham, little right-hander, again took his regular turn on the hill and held the opponents rather handily, allowing them only seven hits which he kept well scattered. He mixed up speed and his clever change of pace to baffle the visitors, while Narberth had little trouble getting to Pitcher Ed Damby for five runs in the opening canto, enough to win had they not scored another from then to the finish.

Charley Carroll and Cliff Mooney shared second hitting honors with a brace of safeties apiece, while P. Orlip and Moyer were head-men for Newtown Square with the same number of safe swats.

In the game with the New Yorkers, the Davismen made a fine beginning when Gilfillan, MacGregor and Slaughter singled successively, after which Cliff Mooney smashed a double, admitting two runs.

However, the invaders came back in the second strongly, when Yancey socked a bingle and Huspert, lanky first sacker, socked a long homer. Four runs were added in the third after an error at second on a double play ball put Pitcher Bud Walker in trouble, and the Davismen couldn't catch up again.

MacGregor and King shared hitting honors for the home team with two hits apiece, while Page socked three safeties for the New York outfit.

Card Party Success

The Mulieres of the Narberth Fire Company held a very successful card party on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Edward Haws, on Dudley avenue. There were prizes for each table, a door prize and refreshments. The time and place for the next card party will be announced later. About 40 attended.

Give Recital Tomorrow

The Sternberg School of Music, Narberth and Haverford avenues, Narberth, will present pupils of Florence Reichert in a recital this Saturday, at 2.30 P. M., in the Ethical Culture Auditorium, 1906 Rittenhouse Square, Philadelphia. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Narberth Trips Darby for Fifth Straight

Borough Nine Undeclared in Main Line League This Season

GRABBED EARLY LEAD

By JOHN MULLIGAN

Is Narberth destined to regain its title as champion of the Main Line League? Perhaps it is a trifle early yet to predict a pennant for Gene Davis' huskies, but the fact remains that the pace the Borough team has been setting in the loop points to a championship for Genial Gene's charges, who finished in the runner-up position to Paoli last year.

Saturday at the playground, the Narberth boys collected their fifth consecutive win and have yet to taste defeat in the senior circuit. This time it was Darby playing the loser's role and certain it is that Johnny Tangye's tossers furnished the home fans with few thrills as they tumbled to a 12-8 defeat.

The Davismen went right out and grabbed a 5-0 lead for Pitcher Pat Clancy, lanky newcomer to the hurling staff, during the course of which Pitcher Frank Howie, of Darby, was socked hither and yon as the home-esters circled the bases, reminding one of a merry-go-round. Harry Francis (Knute to his baseball pals), Bob Gilfillan, Walt (MacDougall) MacGregor, Barney Slaughter and Cliff (Ball-Hawk) Mooney all connected safely with the offerings of the opposing moundman and it resulted in the quintet of markers.

Pat Clancy wasn't so impressive with his pitching, although there is a possibility that the ineffectiveness of the opposing team might likewise have affected him, and accordingly he "let up." Be that as it may, he was slammed for 3 safeties, entirely too many if he hopes to silence the heavy guns of Bryn Mawr when Danny Hemscher's team is tangled with Narberth on June 15. He fanned seven and issued four bases on balls.

Walter MacGregor continued to sparkle afield, scooping up every chance without a boot, and led the ultimate winners with five safe swats. Cliff Mooney, former Media star, was next in line with a trio of safeties, one of which was a double, while Gilfillan, Carroll, Slaughter and King all batted out a brace of hits. One of Carroll's was the long distance clout of the day, allowing him to pull up at the hot corner.

Parent-Teachers' Garden Party Enjoyable Affair

The P. T. A. garden party, held on the lawn of Mrs. Robt. J. Nash, Wednesday afternoon, June 1, was a very delightful affair.

Members and friends played selective card games or enjoyed an afternoon of recreation afforded by the beautiful lawn and generous hospitality of Mrs. Nash.

Prizes were awarded each table and delectable refreshments were served.

Youthful Marauders Warned

Two Philadelphia youths, arrested by Officers Martin and Smythe, of the Lower Merion Police, for larceny on Lancaster pike on May 27, were discharged by Judge Knight, of the Montgomery County Court, last Friday with a warning to keep out of Montgomery County in the future. Detective Captain "Patsy" Mullin was directed by the Court to "take a good look at these boys and if you ever see them in Lower Merion again, pick them up and bring them before me."

Narberth Girl Wins B. M. College Award

Elizabeth Smedley Announced
as Scholarship Winner
Wednesday

WENT TO BORO SCHOOL

Elizabeth Smedley, a member of this year's graduating class at Lower Merion High School, has been awarded the Bryn Mawr College Scholarship.

The announcement was made in the report of Superintendent S. E. Downs at the June meeting of the Lower Merion School Board Wednesday night. Evelyn Hansell was named first alternate.

This is the second consecutive year that the Bryn Mawr Scholarship has been won by a Narberth girl, last year's winner being Joane Baker.

Miss Smedley, who is seventeen, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Quimby Smedley, of Forrest avenue, Narberth. She received the first eight years of her schooling in the Narberth Public Schools, entering Lower Merion in the fall of 1928. She is assistant literary editor of the 1932 class year book and a member of the French Club.

The award of the coveted Bryn Mawr Scholarship adds another to the imposing list of honors won by Narberth students in the Lower Merion Schools. Miss Smedley was born in Narberth, where all four of her grandparents, and many other relatives make their homes. Her mother, the former Hazel Ward, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Ward, of Narberth avenue. Her father is the son of Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Smedley, of Dudley avenue, and a nephew of William D. Smedley, of Narberth avenue.

The winning of the scholarship brings success to the ambition of her aunt, Miss Miriam Ward, a graduate of Bryn Mawr College, who coached and aided her niece from the day she first entered school, with the hope that she would finally enter Bryn Mawr.

Literature Group Honors Mrs. Newman and Her Mother

The Literature group of the Women's Community Club of Narberth gave a party in honor of Mrs. W. C. Newman, first vice-president of the club, and her mother, Mrs. Harriet Miesusett, at the home of Mrs. P. A. Wales, Wynnewood, on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Charles Breewood gave a very interesting review of the new book, "The Art of Being a Woman," by Dr. Olga Knopf. The Literature group presented gifts to both Mrs. Newman and Mrs. Miesusett.

The next meeting of this group will be on June 21, at the home of Mrs. Charles Breewood, on Elmwood avenue, when a new mystery story will be reviewed by Mrs. Charles Dillingham, of Merion.

Foul Ball Breaks Wind- shield; Borough Won't Pay

As they were driving by the Narberth Playground last Friday evening a foul ball from the bat of a player in the Narberth-Ardmore Firemen baseball game crashed through the windshield of the car of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Gayetty, of Brookline, showering them with glass and inflicting cuts on the arms and hands.

In reply to a request from Mr. Gayetty that the Borough supply him with a new windshield, Burgess Henry A. Frye stated that the Borough could not accept liability for the accident, and referred him to the ball clubs.

Congratulated

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Elwood, of Homewood avenue, Narberth, formerly of Bala, announce the birth of a son, Thomas A. Elwood, Jr., on Saturday night, June 4. Mrs. Elwood is the former Miss Edith Maguire, of Narberth. Mr. Elwood is editor of The News, of Bala-Cynwyd.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Thompson, of the Bala Apartments, Bala, are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter, Sally Thompson, Saturday night, June 4. Mrs. Thompson is the former Miss Virginia Bohr, of Boston. Mr. Thompson is associated with his father in the L. M. Thompson coal business in Bala-Cynwyd.

Mr. Dold Gives Information of Interest Bearing on Merger

To the Editor of "Our Town:"

Sir:
The graduating class at Lower Merion High School, as also previous graduating classes from that school, should be answer enough to the parents who are concerned about the education received up to and in the eighth grade of the Narberth School.

Our boys and girls show they receive the proper ground work, to keep them well up in their classes when they reach the Lower Merion Schools.

Why upset pleasant and agreeable arrangements with our friends on the Lower Merion School Board?

Referring to the folder, "Questions and Answers," concerning the Tax Saving Merger, it may be of interest to the citizens of the Borough, to have some idea about taxable properties within the Borough. We have 1264 properties and 77 vacant lots. Most of these lots are adjoining properties, but are assessed separately. The assessed valuation on properties and lots for the year 1932 is $4,687,970.

There are many large lots in the Borough which are suitable for apartment houses similar to Narberth Hall. This property is assessed at $75,000. The apartment houses in the Township carry a large portion of the taxes.

One-fifth of the taxes in the Borough are paid by the holders of sixty nine properties.

Over one half, or 634 properties, in the Borough are assessed $1100 up to $3000. The lots range in assessment from $100 up to $7500.

I would like to correct an error in the statements, which refers to the building of Borough streets. The Borough has never built but one street out of current revenue. That was a portion of Dudley avenue, north from Windsor avenue.

Bonds have always been issued for sewer and highway work. See schedule of bonds issued, dates issued and purpose of issue, as listed in the auditors' report.

The Playground Bonds of $30,000, and the last Street Improvement bonds of $75,000, both approved by the voters, caused the advance in taxes. We have the playground and all of our streets are now improved, requiring maintenance only.

The Tax Collector would like to clear up a wrong impression as to commission received for the collection of taxes. By referring to the auditors' report, you will note the amounts paid by the School Board and Borough Council for collection of taxes in 1930 (this year being completed and audited).

School Board Paid Commission of $1,632.44
Borough Council Paid Commission of 1,773.30

$3,405.74
After deducting expenses of the Tax Collector, cost of bond, printing, postage, deputy collectors' fees, etc., the net amount he receives is approximately $2000. This sum is justifiable, considering the responsibility of the position and the time required to properly fulfill the duties.

The penalties collected $1644.45 on delinquent taxes in the Borough, amount to almost the commission paid the Tax Collector.

After deducting the exonerations each year, covering removal, deaths and duplications, I would estimate the actual number of voters in the Borough at less than 2500.

TOWNSHIP TAXES

The commission for collecting Township Taxes is set by Act of Assembly and reads, "For collecting Township Taxes the collector shall receive 2 per cent. on taxes collected prior to June 1st, and 5 per cent. on all taxes collected between June 1st and October 1st. After October 1st the collector shall receive the penalties imposed by law as compensation

Shreds & Patches

The Proprietor

Suppose that one was the proprietor of a comfortably large piece of land and that for reasons, which had seemed good at the time, he had set aside and walled in a certain portion of that land and put there in all things needful to support ants in comfort and prosperity, provided they were diligent. And that, these things being done, the proprietor had established several colonies of ants there. Then, being preoccupied by many more pressing matters about the place, he had for a long time considered it unnecessary to give any particular attention to those paragons of diligence and insect intelligence, the ants.

The Ants

We will not suppose that the ants had been entirely absent from the mind of the proprietor during the intervening time, but that he had made sure that the weather and other natural events had been on the whole propitious for them; at least, in no way disastrous. But we will let it come to pass that, visiting that part of his land on a certain day in the spring, he finds that the affairs of the ants are in a dolorous condition, with many of them in want, and all of them so filled with fears and forebodings that their customary enterprise and well-ordered diligence is no longer sufficient to provide a prosperous and secure existence for all of them. At a glance the proprietor recognizes that all of their troubles are of their own making; that actually there is food enough for all and that no thing outside of their own control is afflicting them.

Supplications

Then let it be imagined that the proprietor is able to understand what the ants are saying and thinking and to perceive the supplications for relief which they are addressing to him personally. Let him be convinced that some are ascribing their woes to himself, reasoning that as the creator of their habitat he is also the cause of their present troubles, on the assumption that he is punishing them because they have not been sufficiently respectful of him in those long days when he was otherwise occupied, as though the praise of an ant could have any significance in his mind!

Infinite Greed

What would the proprietor do? It seems to The Vagrant that he might decide that he had made a mistake in devoting any of his fair domain to the ants and exterminate them or, having available at the moment no better use for that place, consider that for the collection of delinquent taxes."

In a township, where it is necessary to maintain an office and assistants, this is necessary. No matter who collects the taxes, they must be paid for this work.

The Tax Collector is not stating these facts from an antagonistic point of view, but having lived in the Borough over twenty-four years and been active in the affairs and management of same, he feels very much interested and hopes the majority of the citizens will want to remain as we are at present, the Borough of Narberth.

Signed,
EDWIN P. DOLD.

it was merciful indeed to turn aside and let them work their way out of the troubles which they themselves had originated. Yet he might be touched when he heard them entreating him and saying in their pitifulness, "What is an ant that thou art mindful of him, and the son of an ant, that thou visitest him?" To his mind the limitations of antdom would be more apparent than its intelligence, but he would doubtless be struck by the fact that the greed of ants was infinite.

Incorrigible Enthusiast

La Vagante complains that she is always presented in this column as one who intrudes insistently and usually with trivial failure to recognize the greater affairs of the moment which she is interrupting. That may be so superficially and, owing to the literary limitations of The Vagrant himself, a wrong impression may have been created. It was his intention to indicate that her enthusiasms, her unquenchable interest in all things, was a constant and delightful part of his environment. Probably with the usual feminine perversity she would prefer to have it stated here that she is an excellent housekeeper, a fine cook, a serious member of serious groups and a remarkable budgeteer. Without her and her budget the financial affairs of the Vagrant family would have come to grief and stayed there years and years ago. She is all things capable, but most of all desirable as an incorrigible enthusiast.

THE VAGRANT.

Narberth Theatre Notes

Recommended as an interesting and worth-while picture is Frank Borzage's "Young America," at the Narberth Theatre this week-end. Its cast includes Spencer Tracy and Beryl Mercer. A Benny Rubin comedy helps round out the surrounding program.

Inaugurating a policy of daily matinees, Narberth will give performances Monday and Tuesday afternoons as well as evenings, of "The Hatchet Man," an exciting tale, starring Edward G. Robinson and Loretta Young.

Wednesday and Thursday, the sophisticated and highly amusing comedy, "The Greeks Had a Word For Them," will bring Ina Claire, Madge Evans, Joan Blondell and David Manners.

Racing thrills galore are provided in "The Crowd Roars," coming next week-end.

At the Egyptian

Diverting comedy is furnished by Claudette Colbert, Edmund Lowe and Stuart Erwin in "Misleading Lady," at the Egyptian, Cynwyd, this Friday and Saturday nights. The matinee feature Saturday is Ken Maynard in "Alias, The Bad Man." Accompanying program at all performances includes three interesting short subjects:

"Color Scale," a fishing adventure; a "Torchy" comedy, in which Sewell Ford's celebrated clever red-headed character appears; and "Flip-the-Frog," a cartoon.

Genuine heart-interest is afforded in "Dancers in the Dark," well recommended drama, starring Miriam Hopkins and Jack Oakie, at the Egyptian next Monday and Tuesday.

Wednesday and Thursday, including a 2.15 matinee Wednesday, Johnny Weissmuller and Maureen O'Sullivan will entertain in a picture universally acclaimed as well worth being seen by the whole family: "Tarzan, The Ape Man."

Barbara Stanwyck and Regis Toomey are coming next Friday and Saturday in "Shopworn."

The Principle

that THE MORE YOU BUY THE MORE YOU SAVE, holds good not only for electricity, etc., but also for meats.

—Ribs of Beef, for instance. The thick end cuts (7th and 8th ribs) are as good as the smaller ones, and yet their price is only 18c a pound, at Bradley's this week-end. Weighing 8 to 10 pounds, the rib can be put to many uses for the smallest family—thereby saving on meat bills. Our price, by the way, is the lowest in years—and we've been selling Philadelphia's best meats for over half a century.

Novels Comprise Third Library Reading List

"Novels You Meant to Read" is the third in the series of twelve book lists which have been prepared by the Library for the benefit of those patrons who may desire to systematize their reading. This list is self-explanatory in its title, and recommends itself for the longer and more leisurely summer days as a comprehensive view of the development of the novel.

1. "Don Quixote," by Cervantes (1605). An old masterpiece from Spain that still inspires art in many forms, paintings, sculpture, tapestries and music.

2. "Return of the Native," by Hardy (1878). Not his most popular novel, but considered to be the one in which he most nearly approaches artistic perfection.

3. "Arrowsmith," by Sinclair Lewis (1923). A sincere and revealing picture of a man absorbed in science.

4. "Henry Esmond," by Thackeray (1852). This and "Vanity Fair" have a tremendous sweep and power and not to have read them with mature minds is to have missed much pleasure and satisfaction.

5. "Pickwick Papers," by Dickens (1836). Dickens' first novel and the one in which he immortalized that supreme character, Sam Weller.

6. "Tom Jones," by Fielding (1749). This has become a working model for novels of manners, and to read it is to live for a few hours in the midst of a delightful expression of English life of the period.

7. "Ethan Frome," by Edith Wharton (1911). A short story depicting farm life in its tragic aspects. Considered her best work.

8. "Penguin Island," by Anatole France (1909). Men in the guise of Penguins. Its brilliant wit makes it one of the great satires of all time.

9. "Tono Bungay," by H. G. Wells (1909). In which the author, to use his own words, "gives a view of the whole strange advertising civilization of which London is the center."

10. "Victory," by Conrad (1915). One of the best and most exciting tales by this master of English prose.

11. "Of Human Bondage," by W. Somerset Maugham. An intensely human story of a youth's development.

12. "Anna Karenina," by Tolstoi.

Deservedly included in all lists of great novels.

13. "Sentimental Journey," by Laurence Sterne (1768). The "naughtiness" of this eighteenth century masterpiece of wit is quite modern.

14. "The Way of All Flesh," by Samuel Butler (1903). Thought quite iconoclastic when first published, but still full of vitality.

15. "Crime and Punishment," by Dostoevski. This set a standard for the modern psychological novel which is rarely reached.

16. "Rough Justice," by C. E. Montague (1927). Thoroughly enjoyable and brilliantly written story of English youth during the war.

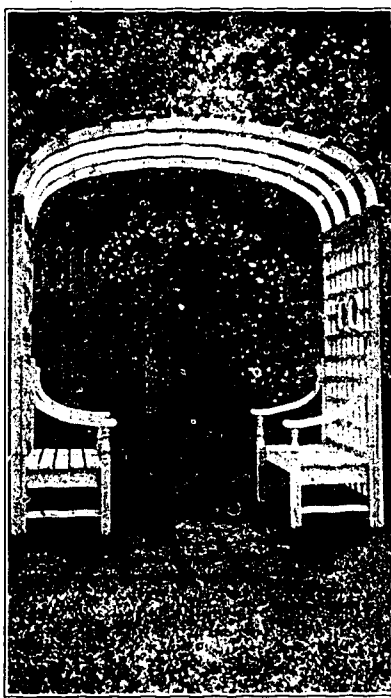

17. "Green Mansions," by W. G. Hudson. If you have not read this book one of the biggest treats in English literature is awaiting you.

18. "South Wind," by Norman Douglas. His masterpiece. A literary ancestor of such books as "The Bridge of San Luis Rey."

19. "My Antonia," by Willa Cather (1918). Those who liked "Shadows on the Rock" and "Death Comes for the Archbishop," will enjoy this earlier novel, which helped to establish her reputation.

All through the ages Gardens have been supplying Romance to literature. The beauty of Nature, combined with some white furniture, will create this same atmosphere for you. The particular piece illustrated is made of Cypress and should be on your lawn right now. June—Roses—Brides—all shed their radiance around these charming spots in the garden. There are other styles in stock, so come in and select the ones that appeal to you. We are open until 3 o'clock on Saturdays.
